The Texas dollar was the currency of the Republic of Texas. Several forms of currency were issued, but an ongoing economic depression made it difficult for the government to provide effective backing. The republic accepted the standard gold and silver coins of the United States, but never minted its own coins.

Received this a week or so ago and really love it. It is in my son's bedroom and looks exactly like the picture shown. It is not dark and the pattern is very nice. The reversible side is dark red (cranberry, I would call it). The dark red stripe on black & white side is in the middle of the bedspread running across the bed; not top to bottom.
